- Bulk of act, including all of the really important parts, not presently in effect
- FLA to come into force on 18 March 2013
- the FLA will apply to all cases in which a court action is started after March 18, 2013, regardless of date of marriage/ date of separation/ etc.

Determining parentage, guardianship, the care of children, relocation.

CHILDREN

Parentage

- FLA determines parentage for all purposes within province except adoption (s. 23)
- Parents are presumed to be biological father and birth mother (s. 26)

Parentage – Assisted Reproduction

- Donor is not parent, unless artificial reproduction agreement to contrary (ss. 24, 30)
- Surrogate mother is parent, unless artificial reproduction agreement to contrary (ss. 29, 30)

Best interests of child

- Best interests of child are only consideration not “paramount” consideration (s. 37)
- Expanded list of factors includes: views of child, history of care, capacity of person to exercise responsibilities for child, impact of family violence, and any civil or criminal proceedings relevant to the child’s safety or well-being (s. 37)

Best interests of child

- Presumption that views of children will be heard in determining children's best interests "unless inappropriate" (s. 37)
- Additional factors prescribed to determine impact of family violence on child and on person's capacity to care for child (s. 38)
- Court must consider family violence factors if violence is an issue

Guardianship

- Parents living together at child's birth are both guardians of child; parent may lose this status by agreement or order (s. 39)
- Parent never living with child is not guardian without appointing agreement or order unless regularly cares for child (s. 39)
- Non-parent may only be appointed guardian by court order (s. 50)

- May be opposed on basis move is not in child's best interests (s. 69)

Relocation

- If guardians have equal time, moving guardian must show that 1 move is made in good faith, 2 reasonable arrangements are proposed to preserve relationship with other guardians, and 3 move is in child's best interests (s. 69)
- Good faith measured in relation to reasons for the move, whether move will enhance quality of life of guardian or child (s. 69)

Who qualifies?

A Client qualifies for legal aid when:

1. The legal problem is covered by LSS; and

What legal problems are eligible for coverage?

Criminal – You can get a lawyer in a criminal case if, after a client was convicted, he or she would:

- go to jail,

- lose their way of earning a living, or
- face an immigration proceeding that could lead to their deportation from Canada.

Family Law

A lawyer can represent a client in a family law case in the following serious family situations :

For example:

- ☐ when they need an immediate court order to ensure you or your children's safety and security,
- ☐ to resolve a serious denial of access to their children,
- ☐ when the other parent threatens to remove the children permanently from the province, or
- ☐ when they have custody of their children and the other parent has access, but he or she has unlawfully held the children and denied them custody.

Child removal

BC law says that:

If the safety of a child in BC is at risk, the Ministry of Children and Family Development (or an Aboriginal delegated agency) must investigate; and

If necessary, the ministry remove the child from the home.

This process is called Child Protection.

Child Protection matters

They can get a lawyer to represent them if:

❖ the Ministry of Children and Family Development has taken or has threatened to take their child(ren) away from them, or

❖ there are custody and access issues related to a child in the care of the Ministry for Children and Family Development.

Immigration

A lawyer can represent a client in an immigration law case if:

- ❖ they are facing an immigration proceeding that may result in their removal from Canada, or
- ❖ they wish to claim refugee status.

If a client wishes to claim refugee status and they qualify, they can get a lawyer to:

- ❖ help them fill out forms
- ❖ help them prepare for a refugee claim hearing
- ❖ represent them at their hearing

The screenshot shows the Clicklaw website interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with links like 'Laws, Cases & Rules', 'Blog', 'About Us', 'Contact', and 'Contributors'. Child protection laws and what they mean for Aboriginal families

It is very important for Aboriginal children to be able to spend time with their extended families and communities. Child protection laws in BC recognize the importance of Aboriginal family ties to Aboriginal children.

If the ministry or Aboriginal delegated agency decides that your child needs protection, you can:

- ask for a family group conference. A facilitator will organize the conference. The conference is not in court and a judge is not involved. Your family members, friends, and other people who help to care for your child can be involved, as well as your lawyer and advocate. At the conference, a social worker from the ministry or Aboriginal delegated agency will discuss a plan with you.
- ask the ministry or Aboriginal delegated agency to use traditional decision making. Your community leaders and family members can take part in working out a plan.
- ask for a mediator (someone who will help work out an agreement between you and the ministry/Aboriginal delegated agency).

* Note

Your child's Aboriginal organization may be a band, friendship centre, treaty first nation, Aboriginal community, Aboriginal organization as listed in the Child and Family Service Act regulations, or a Nisga'a Lisims government. Talk to your lawyer to make sure the right people in your child's Aboriginal organization are informed at the appropriate time of decisions that affect your child.
