

General Tariff Information

[Updated: April 1, 2026]

This chapter of LABC Tariffs describes how Legal Aid BC (LABC) will compensate you for disbursements you pay while providing services to clients. For general information about your contract with LABC, see General Terms and Conditions.

Tariff items

Wherever possible, LABC does not require you to obtain prior authorization for necessary and reasonable disbursements. However, many disbursements are not automatically authorized or are authorized only to a specified limit. To be reimbursed for these, you must obtain authorization before incurring the expense or exceeding the limit or you may not be paid. See also Disbursement Items (on page 4).

LABC will generally not authorize payments for items that are considered general office overhead, unless expressly permitted in the Disbursements Tariff.

Authorization requests

To request authorization for disbursements, submit a tariff item authorization request via the Lawyer Portal.

LABC authorizes disbursements it considers necessary and reasonable. A disbursement is considered necessary if it is likely to significantly advance the client's case or if, without it, the client's case will be significantly disadvantaged. Reasonableness depends on the amount of the disbursement and the circumstances of the particular case. Additional considerations include:

- Will the expenditure result in a tangible benefit to the client?
- Does the disbursement relate to the primary legal issues identified on the representation contract or will it assist in the resolution of a primary legal issue?
- Would a client of modest means incur the disbursement?
- Is this an economical option for this disbursement?
- Is the disbursement consistent with others allowed by LABC?
- Is the other side contributing to the cost?

You may request a review of a decision by writing to the Case Management Section or, for appeal cases, to the Appeals Section. Be sure to outline your reasons for requesting a review.

Retroactive disbursement authorization requests

If a lawyer submits an authorization request to LABC after incurring the expense or exceeding the specified limit, LABC may refuse to pay the cost of the disbursement. See the Retroactive Authorization Requests — Disbursements policy on the LABC website.

Experts

Prior authorization is required to set the limits of the retainer for most experts. For experts, provide the reasons for retaining the expert, a time estimate, and a description of their qualifications (LABC may request a copy of the expert's curriculum vitae).

LABC will specify rates upon authorization for preparation and attendance time, as well as travel time. You must ensure that experts understand, before they provide services, any limits on hours, rates, or expenses that LABC imposes in the authorization or under the tariff.

If you have received authorization for an expert report or assessment, that authorization includes retaining the expert for court testimony at the rates authorized for actual court attendance. Prior authorization is required for travel fees and expenses.

LABC will not fund an expert to attend court to hear evidence from any witness without specific prior authorization.

Incurring disbursements

You are responsible for ensuring that the invoices you submit for reimbursement are accurate billings for satisfactory services and meterage (where applicable). You are also responsible for paying all disbursements except bills from third-party service providers who contract directly with LABC.

LABC is not responsible for any contract for disbursements made between a lawyer and a third party. The lawyer contracts for disbursements and cannot bind LABC to any contract without specific authorization to do so. LABC is not bound by any court order directing a party to pay for a disbursement.

If you have a complaint about the service you received from a service provider, please contact the Manager, Lawyer Services. LABC is concerned about the quality of services its clients receive and may be able to help you reduce the account or pursue a complaint with the appropriate agencies.

Third party invoices

In most cases, you are not required to provide third-party invoices when billing via the Lawyer Portal; however, you may be prompted to provide some information from these invoices when billing. You must keep these invoices for at least five years from the date of payment of your final invoice in case LABC makes a billing inquiry or conducts an audit.

For services you retain on an hourly basis, including experts' services, please ensure that all invoices you receive clearly indicate the client's name, service dates, hearing dates, a breakdown of the number of hours worked (e.g., preparation, attendance), the kilometres travelled and the destination or travel time (as applicable), billing rates, and a brief description of services provided.

Travel

[Updated: April 1, 2026]

Lawyers

Travel authorized

- If travel is authorized on your representation or duty counsel contract under “Contract Details,” prior authorization is not required to bill the items listed below under Rates/guidelines for travel costs.

Travel not authorized

- If travel is not authorized on your representation or duty counsel contract, you may bill meterage, parking, bus, train, ferry, taxi fares, and tolls using the guidelines set out below under Rates/guidelines for travel costs. Request prior authorization via the Lawyer Portal to bill any other travel items.

General guidelines

- You are expected to arrange the most economical means of travel unless you have prior authorization for a more expensive means.
- When you are on travel status and travelling to a location for multiple LABC cases during the same trip, split the disbursement costs equally between each representation contract for which you have a court appearance that day. When you have both legal aid and private files, only bill LABC for the pro-rated portion of travel costs that apply to the legal aid files for which you have a court appearance that day.
- Please read these guidelines in conjunction with the “Travel” billing item of the tariff section that applies to the area of law for your case.

Witnesses

- Prior authorization required to specify the travel expenses allowed for expert and non-expert witnesses.
- Rates for accommodation, airfare, car rental, meals, and meterage as specified below under Rates/guidelines for travel costs apply, unless otherwise noted on the authorization or under the Disbursement items.
- For non-expert witnesses, see also Conduct money.

Rates/guidelines for travel costs

- Witnesses always require prior authorization to bill for travel expenses as set out below. Lawyers may bill travel items without prior authorization if travel is authorized on their representation or duty counsel contract (see relevant guidelines above).

Accommodation

- You may bill for accommodation if you are an out-of-town lawyer who must stay overnight due to the scheduling of a court proceeding.
- LABC is authorized to use government personnel rates for hotel accommodation. You are expected to choose the most reasonable accommodation at provincial government standard room rates for each location as set out on the BC government website.
- Privately owned accommodation in all areas, including that of a friend or relative, is authorized up to $40 per night.
- LABC does not pay for any personal expenses incurred at the hotel.

Airfare

- Use economy fare rates.

Bus, train, ferry, taxi fares, tolls

- Choose the most economical means of travel available.

Car rental

- LABC is authorized to use government personnel rates for car rental.
- Use a car rental only in remote locations or if you arrived at your destination by alternative means (e.g., by air), and a car is the most reasonable and economical means of transportation available there.
- Do not use a car rental in place of a private vehicle and do not bill for meterage.

Meals

- If travel to attend a court hearing or interview a client in custody occurs over two half days on the same day (i.e., you are out of the office for a full day with no overnight stay), you may claim a per diem rate of $17.91 for lunch.
- If you are an out-of-town lawyer who must stay overnight for a court hearing, you may claim the following per diem rates (when travel is for part of a day, claim only the meals applicable to that portion of the day spent travelling):

$15.48	$17.91	$30.96	OR	$64.36
Breakfast	Lunch	Dinner		Daily per diem for meals

- LABC rates for meals are based on the BC Public Service Agency (Employee Group 1) rates.

Meterage

- The LABC meterage rate is $0.67 per kilometre, billable per trip, not per client, no matter how many clients you see.
- LABC provides a meterage allowance per kilometre for actual distance travelled from an office or home to a specified destination other than your office (such as attendance at a courthouse, detention facility, mediation, meeting with clients and witnesses, or examination for discovery) when using a personal vehicle for business relating to a representation or duty counsel contract. The LABC rate for meterage is based on the BC Public Service Agency rate.
- Meterage is not billable for distance travelled between your home and office or for the portion of distance travelled by aircraft or ferry.

Parking

- Claim actual costs up to $18 per day.
- LABC will not pay parking charges that are part of your overhead costs.

Videoconferencing

- Prior authorization required for witnesses to testify via videoconferencing.
- Please inquire whether government rates are available when booking the videoconference.
- This item relates only to videoconferencing expenses and not to the witness expenses.

Transcripts

Do I need (and how do I get) prior authorization?

- Unless otherwise specified in this section of the tariff, or unless the LABC Appeals Section authorizes transcripts when issuing your representation contract, you must obtain prior authorization via the Lawyer Portal before ordering transcripts (see Transcript Items).
- To find out how to request prior authorization, see the relevant “To order...” instructions under Transcript Items.
- If you order a transcript (or a different category of transcript) without getting prior authorization where required, LABC may not pay for it. See the Retroactive Authorization Requests — Disbursements policy.
- LABC will not pay rates higher than those specified on the transcript authorization.

Note: If you submit inaccurate or incomplete information, your request may be delayed.

Which transcript service provider can I use?

Legal Aid BC and the Attorney General have exclusive service provider contracts with a private transcription company to produce transcripts from digital audio recordings of BC Provincial Court (criminal and civil) and BC Supreme Court (criminal) proceedings. The transcription company has the exclusive right to produce official transcripts for specific court registries.

See Appendix: Transcript Service Providers for more information on this transcription company and their service areas.

Note that effective October 1st, 2024, there was a change in the designated transcript service provider. For transcripts prepared prior to this date, the process for obtaining transcript copies may vary from what is described below. Contact Legal Aid BC Lawyer Support if you require assistance.

The transcription company contracts do not cover proceedings before other courts or tribunals (e.g. Immigration and Refugee Board), examinations for discovery, BC Supreme Court civil proceedings, proceedings in (or within the appellate jurisdiction of) the Federal Court, or court proceedings that a court reporter has been retained to attend. If you are representing a legal aid client in proceedings where another party has proposed retaining a court reporter, contact the Lawyer Support Section about the arrangement.

For appeals and judicial reviews, the exclusive rights of the transcription company extend only to preparing the original transcript of a Supreme Court (criminal) or Provincial Court (criminal and civil) proceeding. For the production of appeal transcripts (“Red Books”) and appeal books (“Blue Books”) required for an appeal, you may retain the designated transcription company or an independent appeal book coordinator. However, LABC will not pay rates higher than what the transcription company would charge to produce the appeal transcripts and appeal books. Also note that if you choose to use the designated transcription company to prepare an appeal book, you must obtain all copies required under the applicable Court of Appeal Rules from that transcription company or from the court registry if the transcription company’s services are unavailable.

Which category of transcript can I order?

LABC expects you to order the most economical transcript possible that satisfies your time requirements (see How are transcripts categorized?). Transcription companies charge premium rates for daily, expedited, and priority transcripts, so these are authorized only in exceptional circumstances. If you are requesting an expedited transcript, consider whether a priority transcript will satisfy your time requirements instead. If you do not require the transcript for more than 10 business days, choose a standard one.

How many copies can I order and in what format?

Unless otherwise noted in each item below, when you order a transcript for a non-appeal proceeding as the first party, the transcription company will send one electronic copy to the court registry and one electronic copy (via an electronic storage device or email) to you. You may print copies, or portions, of the electronic transcript for your own internal use. Please print only those portions of the transcript that are necessary to have in printed form. You can bill the printing cost under the Printing electronic disclosure or transcripts item. If you need a paper copy, you must request it from the transcription company.

Can I make copies of transcripts?

Do not provide paper or electronic copies of the transcript to other parties, as they must obtain transcripts directly from the transcription company. You may, however, make copies for your LABC client for use within your own firm, or for another LABC lawyer acting for another LABC client in a multi-party proceeding (e.g., a co-accused).

Who gets the bill for transcripts?

For transcripts of proceedings in BC Provincial Court (criminal and civil) or BC Supreme Court (criminal only), the contracted transcription company will bill LABC directly for the transcripts (see Appendix: Transcript Service Providers). For all other court or tribunal transcripts (e.g., Immigration and Refugee Board or transcripts relating to examinations for discovery), the transcript provider or court reporter you choose will bill you directly. You may then invoice LABC for the disbursement via the Lawyer Portal.

How are transcripts categorized?

Transcripts are classified by the production time required, as follows:

- Daily transcripts must be prepared and made available to the ordering party by 9 a.m. on the business day following the date the transcripts were requested, provided the order was placed with the registry before 4 p.m.
- Expedited transcripts must be prepared and the electronic copy made available to the ordering party by the third business day after the date on which they were ordered and the paper copy, if ordered, received by the ordering party within five business days of the date on which they were ordered.
- Priority transcripts must be prepared and made available to the ordering party within ten business days after the date on which they were ordered.
- Standard transcripts are delivered to the ordering party within 22 business days after the date on which they were ordered, unless the ordering party consents to a longer period, or as required for specific types of proceedings as follows:
 - Oral reasons for judgment, sentencing, rulings, or jury charges must be delivered to the judicial officer for editing within 5 business days after the transcript is ordered. (Note: Written (reserved) reasons for judgment for Supreme Court matters are posted on the Court’s website unless subject to publication restrictions. Some written reasons for judgment for Provincial Court matters may be posted on the Court’s website or on the CanLII database. Oral reasons for judgment for Supreme and Provincial Court matters are posted only at the direction of the presiding judge or judicial officer. For more and up-to-date information about judgments, see the Supreme Court or Provincial Court websites.)
 - Transcripts or transcript extracts required for an appeal, except transcripts for s.684 applications or interlocutory criminal applications, must be delivered to the ordering party within 60 days of filing the Notice of Appeal, unless further extensions are granted by the Court of Appeal.
 - Transcripts for reciprocal maintenance hearings, including hearings under the Interjurisdictional Support Order Act, must be delivered to the ordering party within 14 business days after the transcripts are ordered.
 - Transcripts for preliminary inquiries must be delivered to the ordering party within 22 business days after the transcripts are ordered.

Business day means a day, other than a Saturday or Sunday or holiday, on which provincial government offices are open for normal business in British Columbia.

Transcripts may also be classified by the party ordering them, as follows:

- First party refers to the first order placed by any person for a transcript, or portion of a transcript (in paper or electronic format, or both). Transcription companies charge a higher rate for first party orders. The court registry will require the transcription company to file the original transcript, and you will receive an electronic copy of the original. If you require an official paper copy of the original, you must request authorization.
- Second party refers to the second or subsequent order placed by any person for a transcript, or portion of a transcript (in paper or electronic format, or both), if the transcript has already been produced or is in the process of being produced by a transcription company or court reporter.

Transcript items

This section describes the transcript items, and indicates whether or not prior authorization is required.

Unless otherwise specified in this section, or unless the LABC Appeals Section authorizes transcripts when issuing your representation contract, you need prior authorization for the transcript items below.

Any transcript item not listed below requires prior authorization.

Bail reviews

- No prior authorization required to order first party standard transcripts for bail reviews in Provincial Court only.
- When you order at the first party standard rate, your order will include the original for the court registry, and an electronic copy for you. If you require a second paper copy for your own use, you can print from the electronic copy, or request one in your initial transcript order without seeking prior authorization from LABC.

Preliminary inquiries

- No prior authorization required to order standard transcripts.
- When you order at the first party standard rate, your order will include the original for the court registry, and an electronic copy for you. If you require a paper copy for your own use, you can print from the electronic copy, or request one in your initial transcript order without seeking prior authorization from LABC.

Section 11(b) Charter applications

- No prior authorization required to order standard transcripts.
- When you order at the first party standard rate, your order will include the original for the court registry, and an electronic copy for you. If you require paper copies, you can print from the electronic copy, or request one in your initial transcript order without seeking prior authorization from LABC.

To order transcripts for bail reviews, preliminary inquiries, and s. 11(b) Charter applications:

- Forms.
 - If no authorization is required, complete the applicable sections of the Transcript Order Form and submit it to the appropriate transcription company.
 - If authorization is required, submit a transcript authorization request via the Lawyer Portal. Submit the Transcript Order Form including details of the LABC transcript authorization to the transcription company.
 - For LCM cases, send your request to lcm.support@legalaid.bc.ca and attach a copy of the Transcript Order Form.

Digital audio recording CD

For details, see the Digital audio recording CD item in the Disbursement Items section.

Examinations for discovery and applications to set aside ex parte orders

- LABC may authorize a flat rate of up to $1260.00 which includes court reporter attendance, transcripts and room rental/administrative fees where requested. Please submit an authorization request.
- For applications to set aside ex parte orders, LABC will authorize first party standard transcripts.

To order transcripts for examinations for discovery and applications to set aside ex parte orders:

1. Submit a transcript authorization request via the Lawyer Portal.
2. For examinations for discovery, contact the court reporter of your choice and provide them with a copy of the LABC transcript authorization. The court reporter should bill you directly. You may claim the transcript cost as a disbursement from LABC. When billing via the Lawyer Portal, you must attach a copy of the court reporter's invoice.
3. For applications to set aside an ex parte order, contact the designated transcription company and provide them with a copy of the LABC transcript authorization. The transcription company will bill LABC directly.

Non-appeal proceedings before a court or tribunal

- Prior authorization required for any transcripts of pre-trial or trial proceedings or proceedings before a tribunal.
- For trial transcripts on continuation, LABC will consider transcript requests only if:
 - more than three months have elapsed since the last trial date,
 - there has been a change of lawyer,
 - there has been more than one continuation, or
 - the court has requested written submissions.
- For transcripts of Chambers orders, LABC will authorize transcripts only if the content of the order cannot be determined from the clerk's notes or the court's digital audio recording system (where a copy of the DARS is available without a court application).

To order transcripts for non-appeal proceedings before a court or tribunal:

1. Submit a transcript authorization request via the Lawyer Portal.
2. Use the LABC transcript authorization information to complete a Transcript Order Form. Submit the Transcript Order Form including details of the LABC transcript authorization to the transcription company.
3. When ordering Supreme Court oral reasons, rulings, or jury charges, also complete and send a Finalization and Distribution of Oral Transcription Request Form to the transcription company.

Court reporter's attendance at proceeding

- LABC will authorize a court reporter's attendance at a proceeding only in exceptional circumstances. Please submit an authorization request via the Lawyer Portal, explaining why a court reporter is necessary.

Appeals and judicial reviews – General

- Prior authorization required for all transcripts for appeals and judicial reviews. With some exceptions (noted below), the LABC Appeals Section will ordinarily include a transcript authorization when it issues a representation contract.
- For Crown appeals (of acquittals, sentence, or other matters), the Crown is responsible for ordering transcripts and providing them to you. If Crown has not provided transcripts for the portions of the trial that you need, submit a transcript authorization request for a supplemental transcript via the Lawyer Portal (see To order transcripts for appeals or judicial reviews).
- Consider ordering only those parts of the transcript necessary to advance the issues you have decided to argue and only those exhibits required to determine the appeal or judicial review. Discuss with opposing counsel before ordering the transcript as opposing counsel may feel that additional evidence must be available for the court to consider, especially in cases where you are suggesting the verdict was unreasonable. If in doubt about the sufficiency of the portions of the transcript you and opposing counsel are proposing to use, seek direction from a Chambers judge.

Appeals and judicial reviews – BC Superior courts

Court of Appeal

- You usually require a transcript of the proceedings in the lower court or tribunal (the Red Book), and an appeal book containing all relevant pleadings, exhibits, orders, and rulings (the Blue Book). For most criminal appeals, you must file an original plus five copies of both books (one for the registry, three for the judges hearing the appeal, and one each for the lawyers). You should consult the applicable Rules and/or contact the Court of Appeal Registry for the most current information.
- You are responsible for deciding what material the appeal book should include. For exhibits, contact the trial court registry to obtain an exhibit list, select the relevant material, and ask the transcription company to include it in the appeal book.
- For more information about transcript requirements, consult the Court of Appeal Rules (for civil appeals), or the Criminal Appeal Rules (for criminal appeals), and/or contact the Court of Appeal Registry.
- For appeals against sentence only, the Court of Appeal Registry will order transcripts of the proceedings at sentence, and provide you with a copy if the transcripts of the lower court sentencing proceeding are no longer than 100 pages. If they exceed 100 pages, you will have to order the transcripts. In such cases, submit a transcript authorization request via the Lawyer Portal.

Supreme Court

- For summary conviction appeals in Supreme Court, you usually have to file an original plus three copies of the transcript (the original for the court file, and copies for the judge and counsel). Exhibits that form part of the trial record in Provincial Court are transferred directly to the Supreme Court registry where the appeal will be heard, so a separate Appeal Book is not generally required. For more information, consult the General Criminal Rules, or contact the court registry.
- For all other appeals and judicial reviews in Supreme Court, consult the applicable rules, and/or contact the court registry to determine exactly what is required.

Appeals and judicial reviews – Immigration and prison law appeals

- For appeals to the Refugee Appeal Division (RAD) of the Immigration and Refugee Board, the LABC Appeals Section will not ordinarily authorize transcripts as counsel can usually rely on the audio recording of the refugee hearing. If you require transcripts for a RAD appeal, submit a transcript authorization request via the Lawyer Portal.
- For Federal Court judicial reviews or appeals in immigration matters, the LABC Appeals Section will ordinarily include a transcript authorization with your representation contract. To determine what you must file, consult the Federal Court Rules, or the Federal Court Immigration Rules, or contact the court registry.
- For judicial reviews or appeals in prison law cases, the LABC Appeals Section will include a transcript authorization with your representation contract where it is readily apparent that one is required given the issues in the case. Otherwise, you will need to submit a transcript authorization request via the Lawyer Portal.

To order transcripts for appeals or judicial reviews:

Note: Unless otherwise specified, forms are provided in the Lawyer Portal under Resources — Forms.

1. If your representation contract includes a transcript authorization, review the authorization details. You may need to contact the Appeals Section at helpdesk.appeals@legalaid.bc.ca to provide additional information about the transcripts you need, including an estimate of the proceeding length, so LABC can authorize the appropriate number of pages (“units”). You do not need to submit a transcript authorization request via the Lawyer Portal unless you are specifically asked to do so.
2. If your representation contract does not include a transcript authorization, submit a transcript authorization request via the Lawyer Portal.
3. Once you receive the LABC transcript authorization, use the information to complete a Transcript Order Form. Submit the Transcript Order Form including details of the LABC transcript authorization to the transcription company or appeal book coordinator.
4. For Supreme Court oral reasons, rulings, or jury charges, also complete and send a Finalization and Distribution of Oral Transcription Request Form to the transcription company or appeal book coordinator.
5. For Federal Court judicial reviews in immigration matters, you will need to request a recording of the proceedings from the Immigration and Refugee Board, and submit that recording, the Transcript Order Form, and a copy of the LABC transcript authorization to the appropriate transcription company.
6. If you have questions about your transcript authorization, the process for requesting LABC authorization, or ordering transcripts, contact the LABC Appeals Section at helpdesk.appeals@legalaid.bc.ca.
