Introduction

Welcome to the Legal Services Society (LSS). We've been providing legal aid services to people with low incomes in BC for over 30 years.

We're pleased that you've decided to make legal aid work part of your practice. You're helping to ensure that British Columbians have access to justice.

Whether you're starting your legal career or you're a seasoned lawyer, doing legal aid work will provide you with many opportunities and benefits. You'll be:

- » fulfilling your sense of social responsibility;
- » taking on interesting case work in criminal, family, child protection, and immigration law, and appeals;
- » gaining significant court room experience;
- » receiving access to extensive practice resources and support services;
- » getting paid in a timely and efficient manner; and
- » working with an organization that's committed to helping people find solutions to their legal issues.

We're here to help you work effectively with your legal aid clients. This booklet is your quick reference to legal aid work. It introduces you to LSS, our legal aid services, and working with us. You'll also find out about billing tips and the resources available to help you in your law practice.

The booklet includes links to information in other sections, as well as links to LSS web pages and other website resources.

If you still need more information, you can contact our staff, who are always available to answer your questions.

We'll be updating this reference tool as needed. In any instance of discrepancy between this reference, the online LSS Tariffs, and other LSS policies, the latter two take precedence.

If you have any feedback for us, email lawyersresources@lss.bc.ca.

About LSS

The Legal Services Society (LSS) is a non-profit organization created by the LSS Act in 1979 to provide legal aid to people with low incomes in BC. We're funded primarily by the provincial government, and also receive grants from the Law Foundation and the Notary Foundation. We're independent of government and accountable to the public.

Structure and governance

LSS is led by a nine-member board of directors that includes members appointed by the government (five) and by the Law Society (four). The board appoints a chief executive officer (CEO) to administer the business of the society. LSS is managed by an Executive Management Committee (EMC) comprised of the CEO and the four divisional directors. Our four divisions are:

- » Public Legal Information and Applications;
- » Legal Advice and Representation;
- » Strategic Planning, Policy, and Human Resources; and
- » Finance and Corporate Services.

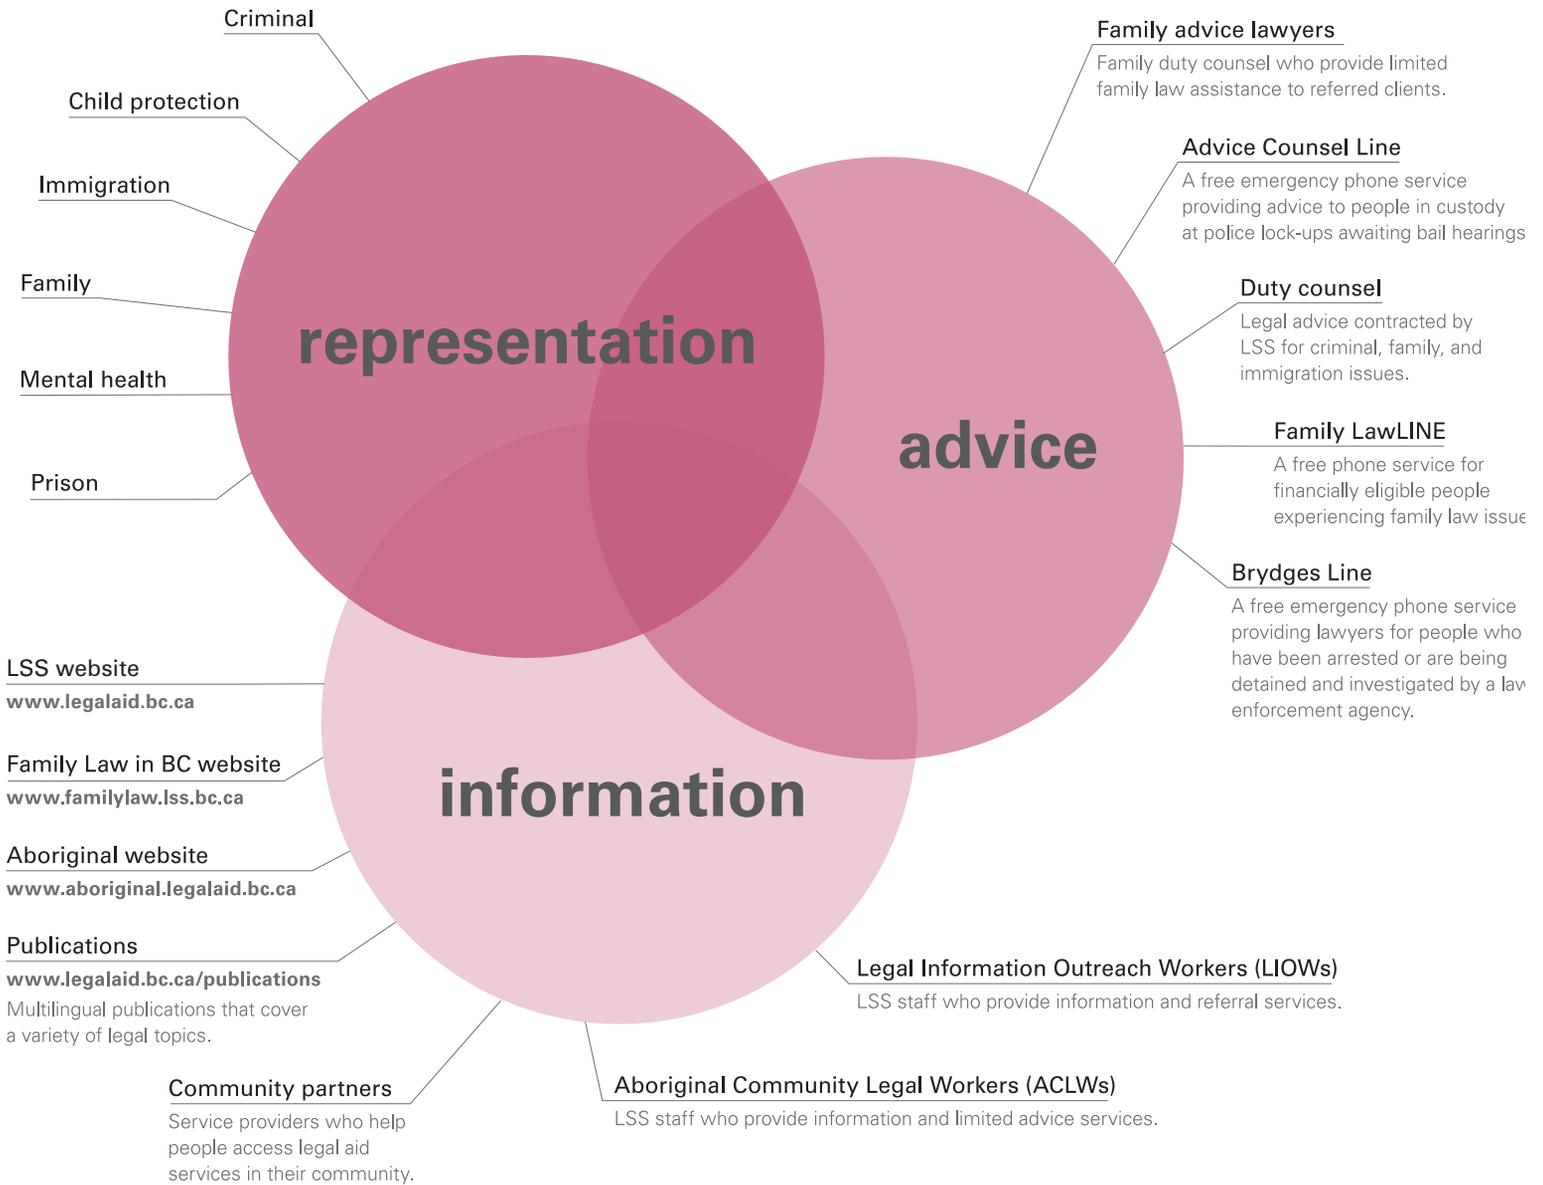

These divisions, along with the Executive Office, operate out of our Vancouver Regional Centre, providing direct client services as well as management and administrative support.

Legal representation

We provide legal representation to financially eligible people whose issues are covered by our guidelines. These issues may include serious family problems, child protection (CFCSA) matters, criminal charges, immigration problems, and prison and mental health law issues. LSS works with approximately 900 private bar lawyers who take legal aid contracts.

Applying in person

LSS provides legal aid intake services in person at:

- » LSS regional centres in Vancouver and Terrace,
- » satellite offices in Port Coquitlam and Prince Rupert,
- » local courthouses, and
- » local agent offices in communities across the province.

Applying by phone

604-408-2172 or 1-866-577-2525 (no charge)

Immigration applications: 604-601-6076 or 1-888-601-6076 (no charge)

Hours: 9:00 am to 4:00 pm (except Wednesdays – 9:00 am to 2:30 pm)

Intake services are available through our LSS Call Centre in Vancouver. The call centre provides a recorded legal aid welcome message in six languages: Cantonese, English, French, Mandarin, Punjabi, and Spanish. Interpretation services may be provided when appropriate.

Legal advice

We provide general legal advice to financially eligible people through duty counsel and telephone services.

Working with LSS

We want your experience working with us to be positive, so we make it easy for you. Your legal aid work includes the following steps, which are explained in this chapter.

1. Get your LSS vendor number
2. Access LSS Online
3. Get a contract
4. Use the *LSS Tariffs
5. Bill your invoices

This chapter also provides information about audits and complaints, getting help with contracts, and working with other counsel.

1. Get your LSS vendor number

Before you can accept a legal aid contract, you need to get an LSS vendor number, which is your permanent ID in our computer system.

How to apply:

- » Go to LSS Online and click “Register now.”
- » Fill in the Lawyer Vendor Application Form-A.
- » Print the form and submit it to us by fax or email. (Note that it may take up to three business days for us to process your registration.)

Register for LSS Online →

After we process your registration, you’ll receive a welcome email with your vendor number, LSS Online username and temporary password, along with information about our range of online resources.

2. Access LSS Online

Lawyer Services Department

lawyer.support@lss.bc.ca

604-601-6155 or 1-888-401-6206 (no charge)

LSS Online is our secure system for billing, requesting disbursements, and exchanging information with you.

To set up your LSS Online account:

- » Log in to the system using the username (“firstname.lastname”) and password we provided to you.
- » Change your temporary password after first logging in. Note that passwords are case sensitive. (Don’t share your password with anyone.)
- » Enter your practice information in “My Profile.” Although you’ll be prompted once a year to verify your profile information, it’s important that you update it whenever your information changes. Profile information includes the types of contracts you’re interested in, your specialities, and the locations where you’d take contracts. We need your current information to identify, contact, and pay you correctly. We also use this information to match clients’ needs with lawyers. Please keep your General email address up to date because this is our primary way of communicating with you.

“I’ve greatly benefitted from several LSS initiatives, including the Mentoring Assistance and Apprentice Counsel programs and CLE courses that I’ve attended at low or no cost.”

— Katrina Harry, Vancouver

3. Get a contract

We'll send you a contract when a client, who's been approved for legal aid, requests that you be appointed as their counsel. Sometimes, we may send you contracts for cases where a client hasn't requested a specific lawyer.

About your contract:

- » You'll receive a contract (by fax or email) that sets out some of the details about the client and the case. In general, a contract authorizes you to provide and bill LSS for services according to the tariff contract.
Find out about using the tariffs on page 9
- » The contract may also contain specific instructions about the services you're authorized to provide, the contract start and stop date, and any restrictions that apply.
- » After receiving the initial contract, you may need to request authorization from LSS for extraordinary services or disbursements.
- » If your request is granted, we'll issue an authorization setting out the details.

LSS has the right to:

- » refuse payment for services or expenses we didn't authorize. Therefore, before providing services or incurring any expenses in a legal aid case, ensure you have a contract for the case and understand what's billable under your contract and what LSS has authorized.
- » cancel a contract at any time if a client no longer meets LSS guidelines for coverage or financial eligibility.

Retainer agreements with clients

Although the tariff contract sets the retainer agreement between you and LSS, we recommend that you also use retainer agreements with your LSS clients.

Refer to our LSS Family Services Retainer Agreement →

The Law Society of BC provides precedents that may be adapted for legal aid purposes in other areas of law.

See the Law Society of BC website →

The duty counsel roster

LSS contracts with lawyers to provide duty counsel services for criminal, family (including child protection), and immigration matters.

Duty counsel can:

- » speak for clients in court on simple matters,
- » give advice about legal issues and court procedures,
- » help with documents, and
- » possibly negotiate issues.

Duty counsel work at Provincial and Supreme courthouses or at the Pacific Region Enforcement Centre of the Canada Border Services Agency in Vancouver.

Learn more about duty counsel on page 26 →

Circuit counsel

LSS provides circuit counsel to attend remote circuit court locations in BC. We use a competitive bidding process to establish term contracts with specific lawyers to provide legal representation and other services in regions served by circuit courts. We notify the tariff bar when we're seeking lawyers to act as circuit counsel.

“I believe that we’re performing a very necessary service in protecting the legal rights of the poor and disenfranchised in our society.”

— Dianne Andiel, Victoria

4. Use the LSS Tariffs

The latest version of the LSS Tariffs is available on our website. Changes to the tariffs are announced in Notices to Counsel that are emailed to all lawyers who have an active LSS vendor number and are also posted on our website.

Your tariff contract

When you accept a legal aid contract, you agree to provide services based on the tariff contract (your retainer agreement with LSS). Your agreement is based on the LSS Tariffs and any other written instructions we give you for a contract.

Your responsibilities

The General Terms and Conditions chapter of the LSS Tariffs sets out the basic framework of the tariff contract and describes your responsibilities.

LSS Tariffs

Each area of law (contract type) covered by legal aid has a separate tariff chapter, as listed below. Each chapter specifies the rules and amounts payable for the various services that LSS funds.

- » Criminal,
- » Family,
- » CFCSA,
- » Immigration,
- » Appeals and Judicial Reviews, and
- » Duty Counsel (including Circuit Counsel).

Disbursements

The Disbursements Tariff describes the types of expenses you may incur when providing legal services to LSS clients, and the limits on those expenses.

For some categories of disbursements, you may incur the expense and claim reimbursement from LSS without prior authorization, while others require that you have authorization in advance.

Getting paid

LSS has a number of different methods for compensating lawyers, as outlined below.

Hourly rates and block fees
Type of rate/fee	Details	Breakdown
Hourly rates (See General Terms and Conditions)	Maximum billable hours specified within individual tariffs. Applies to these tariffs: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Family• CFCSA• Immigration• Appeals and Judicial Reviews• Duty Counsel• Criminal (Case Management)• Criminal (Enhanced Fees)	Includes these billing items: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• General preparation• Preparation for specific proceedings• Attendance
Block fees	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Criminal (see Criminal Tariff)• Circuit counsel (see Duty Counsel Tariff)	Flat legal fees paid for a particular service, which covers all work done for that service (including preparation and attendance).

Tiered rates and fees

Tiered rates	The differential tariff rates for lawyers based on: call date, service start date of contract, and tariff item. When you bill, claim the Tier 1 rate and LSS will adjust as necessary.
Tier	Years of call	Block fees	Hourly rate
1	Less than 4 years	Amount specified in tariff item	$83.90
2	4 or more years and less than 10 years	Applicable Tier 1 rate plus 5 percent	$88.10
3	10 or more years	Applicable Tier 1 rate plus 10 percent	$92.29
Enhanced fees	Fees in excess of the tiered rates LSS normally pays to counsel. The hourly rates below are for attendance and preparation.
Counsel	Hourly rate
Senior counsel	$125.00
Junior counsel	$62.93 – $83.90
Further legal fees
Extra fees (See General Terms and Conditions)	LSS may, at its discretion, pay extra legal fees after considering other factors. Requested at the conclusion of the case, after counsel submits a final invoice.
Additional preparation	Requested before conclusion of contract (if it's recognized that substantially more hours than permitted under the applicable tariff are required to complete the contract). Must submit an up-to-date invoice.
Submit written requests by fax to Lawyer Services at 604-681-5796 . (Include timesheets, supporting documents, and additional information.)
For appeals or judicial review cases, fax written requests to Appeals Section at 604-682-0956 .

Billing inquiries and deductions

LSS reviews lawyers' bills to ensure that they follow the LSS Tariffs. If we have a question about your invoice, we'll send you a billing inquiry. You must respond to the inquiry in writing within 30 days. If we determine that your invoice contains items that shouldn't have been billed, we'll reduce your invoice accordingly.

Audits and complaints

The LSS Audit and Investigation (A&I) Department ensures that private bar lawyers acting for legal aid clients bill LSS appropriately for their services. Through the complaints process, A&I investigates and monitors the quality of service and other service-related concerns with respect to LSS clients.

Audits

LSS is accountable for the public funds it receives. Our audit program helps to ensure that we manage our financial resources soundly. The A&I Department performs audits of tariff items commonly billed incorrectly or of contracts reflecting anomalies. Following an audit, LSS may determine that the lawyer is required to reimburse LSS for funds paid that weren't in accordance with the tariff contract. Information obtained through our audit program and feedback from lawyers is also used to improve the tariff and other LSS policies and procedures.

Complaints about lawyers

Audit and Investigation Department

Legal Services Society, 400 – 510 Burrard Street, Vancouver, BC V6C 3A8 complaints@lss.bc.ca
604-682-0979 (fax)

If LSS receives a complaint about a lawyer, our A&I Department will formally register the complaint and, depending on its source and nature, will follow up appropriately. If the complaint merits a full investigation, all sides will be given an opportunity to state their views. If the concerns are determined to be serious and substantiated, LSS may put restrictions on the type or number of contracts the lawyer can take, or suspend or revoke the lawyer's vendor number under our Lawyer Compliance Policy.

Getting help with contracts

LSS provides a variety of resources to help you provide quality service to LSS clients, including CLE case digests, course bursaries, and mentoring.

Find out about practice resources on page 65 →

Quality assistance

LSS has established a Quality Assistance Program to help ensure that LSS clients receive quality legal services that are comparable to those that private clients receive. The program focuses on quality enhancement, the goal of which is to provide lawyers with the resources and learning opportunities they need to deliver high quality services.

As part of our Quality Assistance Program, we created What You Should Expect from Your Legal Aid Lawyer, a plain language fact sheet that outlines the standard of service LSS clients can expect to receive from their lawyers. It's available on our website in English, Chinese, Farsi, French, Punjabi, Spanish, and Vietnamese.

Working with other counsel

Working with other counsel

Counsel agent

You can bill LSS for the legal services of a counsel agent without prior authorization if:

- the services were provided in BC,
- the services are billable according to the LSS Tariffs,
- the agent didn't assume conduct of the contract, and
- the services the agent performed are indicated on the invoice.

Articled student

You can bill LSS for some legal services provided by an articled student. (More details can be found in the LSS Tariffs.)

Client intake process

Eligibility

Applicants must show they're financially eligible to receive legal advice or legal representation services from LSS. Financial eligibility guidelines differ for advice and representation. But everyone is entitled to receive free legal information. Applicants don't need to reside in BC or hold Canadian citizenship to qualify for legal aid services.

representation

Financial eligibility based on

- household size
- net income (after tax and deductions)
- assets

Conditions/Exceptions

An applicant's net monthly household income and assets must fall below certain limits, based on household size.

Income of all household members is included in the calculation of net income (except the income of children under 18 years old).

Applicants on BC income assistance aren't subject to the asset test.

advice

Financial eligibility based on

- household size
- net monthly income (after tax and deductions)

Conditions/Exceptions

Clients who aren't eligible can still receive limited advice from:

- family duty counsel
- family advice lawyer
- Family LawLINE

information

Financial eligibility: N/A

Conditions/Exceptions: None

In very limited types of circumstances, financial requirements aren't necessary for court-ordered counsel, disclosure applications, material witnesses (under s.278 of the Criminal Code), mental health representation, and youth charged under the Youth Criminal Justice Act.

Legal representation

Applicants whose income is below the guidelines may own some assets and still be eligible for legal representation through LSS. However, if their share of equity in disposable assets is above the asset guidelines, they aren't eligible for legal representation, regardless of their net monthly income.

Find out about eligibility →

The onus is on the applicant to satisfy LSS requirements and to prove income and deductions. If the client's financial situation improves, LSS must be advised of the change and may reassess eligibility.

Find out about changes in client's financial situation on page 23 →

Legal advice

There is a separate financial eligibility test for LSS legal advice services, including family duty counsel, family advice lawyers, and Family LawLINE services.

“I’ve found it deeply fulfilling to work hard for clients who always remember my advocacy as a bright spot in their time of need.”

— Lisa Jean Helps, Vancouver

Applications for legal representation

Our intake staff determine whether applicants for legal representation meet LSS financial and coverage guidelines, and then refer eligible clients to lawyers. If applicants aren't eligible for legal representation, intake staff may provide general legal information and referrals to other LSS services or other agencies.

Applicants who are refused legal representation for any reason have the right to apply for a review of that decision. Requests for reviews must be submitted in writing and should be submitted as soon as possible. LSS will consider requests received up to 30 days after the decision. Applicants who want a review must complete a Legal Aid Representation Services – Refused form, which they can get from an intake legal assistant. Applicants must set out the reasons why they think the decision was wrong, and fax the form to LSS.

Contracts

We refer clients to lawyers who have an active LSS vendor number, are members in good standing with the Law Society of BC, hold a Law Society certificate, and who LSS deems eligible.

Choice of counsel

We refer clients to the lawyer of their choice, provided the lawyer is available, willing to take the file, and practises in the community where the case will be heard (i.e., within 80 kilometres of the court location).

Exceptions to the general policy

Clients may choose a lawyer from outside the community if the lawyer is willing to take the file, has an active LSS vendor number, and:

- » the client faces a minimum of life imprisonment, or
- » the client faces dangerous offender proceedings, or
- » the trial is to be conducted in French (and there is no French-speaking local counsel), or
- » no local counsel is available.

In the circumstances above, a lawyer is entitled to travel fees and expenses. In other cases, LSS may appoint non-local counsel if the lawyer is prepared to waive travel fees.

In exceptional circumstances, if a client resides a considerable distance from court, and is unable to travel to meet with local counsel, LSS may appoint counsel in the community where the client resides.

No choice of counsel

If a client doesn't know an appropriate lawyer, LSS will assign the contract to an available lawyer on the LSS vendor list. LSS will consider the client's unique needs and the demands and complexity of the case.

If a client makes a request for a specific type of lawyer (e.g., an Aboriginal lawyer, a female lawyer, or a lawyer from a particular ethnic background), our staff will try to accommodate the request.

Change of counsel

LSS permits change of counsel only in limited circumstances. Clients may apply for a change of counsel at which time LSS will confirm that:

- » the client continues to be financially eligible for assistance,
- » covered issues remain unresolved and appointing another lawyer will help get them resolved, and
- » the client has a valid reason for requesting a change and the request is reasonable.

A valid reason for a change of counsel exists when the client has legitimate concerns about the quality of the service being provided by counsel, or the client/lawyer relationship has completely broken down and can't be repaired. A request is reasonable when the client's instructions and expectations are reasonable and realistic given the circumstances of the contract.

For criminal matters

A client is entitled to one change of counsel within the first 90 days of a contract unless the client is using a change of counsel to delay the contract.

Lawyer-initiated

A lawyer must inform LSS if they'd like to withdraw from a contract. We'll appoint a new lawyer if the client is still eligible and the issue(s) is coverable, there is a valid reason for the change, and the request is reasonable. Additionally, LSS will appoint a new lawyer if a lawyer advises us that they must withdraw from a case and the withdrawal meets the requirements set out in the Law Society of BC's Code of Professional Conduct for British Columbia (Chapter 2).

Client confidentiality

Section 23 of the Legal Services Society Act covers the issue of privilege.

All information disclosed by a client or applicant for legal services to an employee or agent of the society or funded agency is privileged and must be kept confidential as in a client/lawyer relationship.

All clients who are receiving legal representation services have to agree to the terms of a contract that allows their lawyers to give information to LSS about their financial situation or their legal case.

Freedom of Information

LSS is subject to the provisions of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act. LSS collects and uses personal information solely to operate its business and provide legal aid in British Columbia. In making decisions about releasing records, LSS protects the confidentiality of personal information, and provides as much information as possible and as quickly as possible.

Lawyers' invoices for fees and disbursements on behalf of their legal aid clients are considered part of the client's personal file (as well as part of the lawyer's file). Copies of these invoices are routinely provided to clients if they request them.

Reciprocals

Reciprocals Coordinator

reciprocity@lss.bc.ca

Under the Interprovincial/Territorial Reciprocity Agreement, LSS has reciprocal agreements with the other Canadian provinces and territories to provide legal representation services to people with legal issues outside of their resident province or territory. LSS provides coverage outside of BC for family and immigration matters. Although the agreement doesn't cover criminal matters, these issues may be covered in other ways. Contact the reciprocals coordinator for family, immigration, or criminal law matters.

Changes in client's financial situation

Clients receiving legal representation may be reassessed at certain times to determine if they're still financially eligible.

If you become aware that a client's financial circumstances have improved, you must notify the LSS Intake referring office and/or direct the client to contact LSS for a financial reassessment (LSS Tariffs – General Terms and Conditions).

Reassessments normally occur:

- » if LSS believes that a client's financial circumstances may have improved during the course of a contract;
- » if an applicant/client or counsel notify LSS of an improvement in financial circumstances;
- » if the referring office becomes aware of assets, income, or family relationships that the client didn't disclose during the intake application;
- » to verify financial information provided in the original application;
- » if an applicant/client receives assets or money, such as a windfall;
- » if a client receives funds from a judgment or settlement during or after the conclusion of their contract;
- » when a client is released from custody (clients are advised to contact LSS Intake referring office upon release);
- » when a client's EI benefits end;
- » when a new contract is opened (if more than 90 days have passed since the last financial assessment);
- » when a change of lawyer is processed;
- » at a significant juncture in a case (e.g., between a preliminary hearing and a trial), or when applying for Extended Family Services;
- » as a result of a complaint about the client's financial eligibility; or
- » on a random basis for auditing purposes.

Termination of services

If any client is found to be no longer financially eligible, their contract is terminated. Clients may need to repay LSS or may be billed by their lawyer privately where authorized.

See conversion to private retainer on page 25 →

The client's reassessed eligibility applies to all ongoing legal aid contracts. For example, if the client has an open family contract and an open criminal contract, and is found ineligible upon reassessment, both contracts will be terminated.

LSS may terminate legal representation when:

- » a client doesn't respond to requests for updated information; or
- » a client no longer has a coverable problem or unreasonably fails to accept legal advice.

If a client is found financially ineligible but their circumstances later change, they may reapply. As well, a client has the right to have any decision regarding termination that was made by our Intake Department reviewed; however, decisions made by our Finance Department after conducting a financial investigation are final, and the client has no avenue of appeal.

Settlements and judgments

If a client receives assets or settlement funds, LSS will decide if they should pay some or all of the legal expenses for their case, and, if so, will determine:

- » whether the client remains eligible for legal aid;
- » the amount the client should pay; and,
- » whether you're authorized to enter into a private retainer with the client from the date of the settlement judgment assessment.

Upon receipt of any settlement funds, you must notify LSS of the funds, and hold the funds in trust until LSS requests repayment or authorizes release of all or part of the funds to the client.

See General Terms and Conditions →

See the Settlements and judgments policy →

For questions about repayments, contact our Financial Review & Collections Coordinator at 604-601-6016.

Conversion to private retainer

A contract lawyer is required to notify LSS of any changes to the client's financial situation in accordance with the LSS Tariffs – General Terms and Conditions. If LSS determines that the client is no longer financially eligible, the general accountant will provide the contract lawyer with written authorization to convert to a private retainer.

We recommend that you have a retainer letter with the client that addresses the possibility of conversion to private retainer and sets out the rate that you'll privately bill if the matter is converted.

If a contract lawyer can't negotiate a private retainer with a client, and withdrawing from the contract would amount to a breach of the Law Society of BC's Code of Professional Conduct for British Columbia (Chapter 3), LSS may permit a person who is otherwise not financially eligible for legal representation to continue to receive legal aid until the end of the contract or until it's permissible for counsel to withdraw.

You mustn't bill a client privately on any matter related to the case specified in a contract without prior written authorization from LSS.

Complaints about client eligibility

LSS also investigates complaints regarding clients who are receiving legal representation who may not meet the financial eligibility guidelines or have matters that aren't coverable issues for the services. Where we confirm reports of abuse of legal aid services, we terminate coverage and, where possible, recover funds that have been paid out on these cases from the clients.

Criminal

This chapter describes the legal representation and advice services that we provide for criminal law matters in Provincial Courts and some Supreme Courts throughout BC. It also explains the Criminal Tariff, our Criminal Case Management Program, enhanced fee cases, and Rowbotham applications and appeals.

Legal representation

LSS provides legal representation services for the following applicants and issues.

Adults

Legal representation is available to applicants who are charged with a criminal offence, meet LSS financial eligibility criteria, and, if convicted, are likely to:

- » go to jail or get a conditional sentence; or
- » lose their livelihood; or
- » face a risk of removal from Canada.

Representation is also provided where approved applicants:

- » don't face imprisonment if convicted but have a mental or physical disability that prevents them from defending themselves, or
- » are Aboriginal and their ability to follow a traditional livelihood of hunting and fishing could be affected if they're convicted of an offence (including charges under the federal Fisheries Act and the provincial Wildlife Act and Firearms Act).

Aboriginal people

People who are Aboriginal (status and non-status Indians, Métis, and Inuit) have rights under the Criminal Code called Gladue rights. Gladue refers to the special consideration that judges must give an Aboriginal person when sentencing or setting bail. In addition to Gladue rights, Aboriginal people may be able to have their bail or sentencing hearing in the First Nations Court of BC in Duncan, Kamloops, or New Westminster.

Learn more about Gladue and First Nations Court →

Youth

Youths charged under the Youth Criminal Justice Act (YCJA) are eligible for legal representation regardless of their financial situation. If a person is over 18 but is facing a YCJA criminal offence, LSS will provide legal aid coverage until the YCJA case is completed.

Youths charged under provincial statutes, including the Motor Vehicle Act, must meet LSS financial and coverage criteria for legal representation.

Permanent or temporary wards of the Ministry of Children and Family Development get representation through that ministry, not through LSS. This applies to youths who are in care pursuant to a court order. Youths under short-term voluntary care agreements are eligible for legal aid, since the ministry isn't responsible for providing counsel.

Victims of crime

Victims of sexual offences are eligible for legal aid in situations where the defence lawyer seeks disclosure of personal records (i.e., counselling or medical records). Applicants in these cases don't have to be financially eligible to qualify for representation. LSS pays counsel with funding from the Victim Services and Crime Prevention Division of the Ministry of Justice.

Depending on the circumstances of the case, the ministry may agree to provide funding for:

- » witnesses or victim service agencies served with disclosure applications, or
- » victims of other (non-sexual) offences served with applications to produce records that aren't disclosure applications.

Witnesses

Managing Lawyer, Criminal Law Services

604-601-6027 and 604-601-6195 (fax)

LSS doesn't provide representation for witnesses unless the testimony of the witness would create a risk of that person being charged with a coverable criminal offence. Approval for coverage requires prior authorization.

Other types of proceedings

LSS covers other types of matters such as:

- » Extradition hearings.
- » Annual review hearings and Review Board hearings for people found unfit or not criminally responsible due to mental disorder under the Criminal Code. When hearings are in the Lower Mainland, representation is provided by the Community Legal Assistance Society (CLAS) wherever possible;
- » Coroner's inquests. This requires prior approval by the Managing Lawyer, Criminal Law Services. Cases will only be approved if the testimony of the client puts the client at risk in relation to a coverable criminal offence.
- » Limited representation where the court has made an order under section 486.3 for counsel to cross-examine vulnerable witnesses.

Legal advice

LSS provides legal advice through the following services:

- » in- and out-of-custody duty counsel,
- » circuit counsel,
- » the Brydges Line, and
- » the Advice Counsel Line.

Duty counsel

Duty counsel give advice to all accused, regardless of their financial situation.

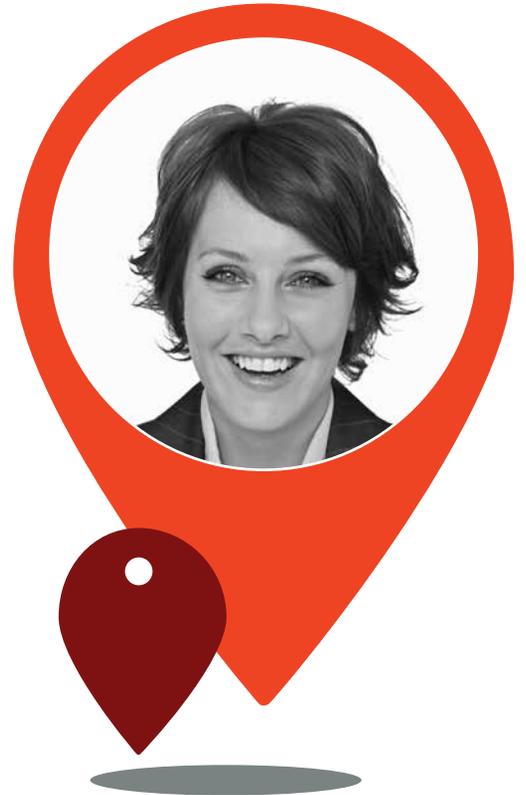

Criminal duty counsel, including those in youth court, are assigned by legal aid offices for their catchment area. In locations where courts are usually busy, duty counsel are assigned regularly. In some smaller communities, duty counsel are appointed only as needed.

LSS also provides duty counsel services at First Nations Court locations.

Getting on the duty counsel roster

LSS is responsible for approving the lawyers for the rosters in each location, at its discretion. Generally LSS assigns those who practise in the community where the court is located, who are actively accepting legal aid contracts, and who have demonstrated experience in the practice of criminal law.

To request to be added to the criminal duty counsel roster for your community, contact your nearest legal aid office.

In-custody duty counsel

In-custody duty counsel help adults and youth in custody in provincial criminal courts. In particular, they:

- » interview the accused in the lock-up before the start of court;
- » explain the nature of the charges and the court procedures;
- » explain how to apply for legal aid; and
- » appear in court and handle show cause hearings, remands, variations of bail, bail on new charges, adjournments, and guilty pleas for any in-custody accused who wants his or her case concluded that day.

Youth court

Duty counsel will provide advice at detention reviews under the YCJA. If the case is complicated, duty counsel should advise the client to apply for a standard criminal contract.

Out-of-custody duty counsel

Out-of-custody duty counsel provide summary advice and assistance in both adult and youth court to accused people making initial appearances in Provincial Court. If time permits, duty counsel may assist clients with simple bail variations, negotiations, or guilty pleas.

Circuit counsel

LSS retains circuit counsel if the location and operation of a circuit court make it impractical or impossible to refer eligible clients to local counsel. Circuit counsel provide criminal duty counsel services or legal representation for qualified individuals. Qualified individuals in circuit locations are only referred to other lawyers if circuit counsel isn't able to act.

Brydges Line

1-866-458-5500 (no charge; 24 hours a day, 7 days a week)

LSS contracts with private bar lawyers to operate the Brydges Line, a province-wide toll-free telephone service. People can call to speak to a lawyer if they're:

- » arrested, or
- » detained and under active investigation by the police or another law enforcement agency for a criminal offence but aren't yet charged, and need emergency legal services.

For a person arrested for murder, manslaughter, or attempted murder, the on-duty Brydges lawyer contacts a local senior member of the bar able to provide an in-depth consultation.

Advice Counsel Line

1-888-595-5677 (no charge, throughout BC)

Monday to Friday: 6 p.m. – 10:00 p.m.

Weekends and statutory holidays: 8:00 a.m. – 10:00 p.m.

LSS contracts with private bar lawyers to provide emergency telephone advice counsel services to people who are in custody at police lock-ups awaiting bail hearings.

LSS doesn't authorize advice counsel to conduct teleconference bail hearings.

The tariff

Most criminal law services are paid according to block fees that are based largely on court appearances, and include preparation time. For example, LSS doesn't pay separately for case preparation and research, meetings with clients (unless visiting a client in custody), some court appearances such as attendances for adjournments, time spent on the telephone and writing correspondence, or time spent interviewing witnesses. All of these services are included in the block fee.

LSS categorizes offences based on seriousness, and the legal fees for services vary according to the category of offence.

Category of offence
Administrative	Includes the least serious offences, where the Crown proceeds summarily and the maximum sentence is six months, such as motor vehicle offences (e.g., driving while suspended), failure to appear in court, or breach of probation.
Summary	Includes most summary or hybrid offences (where the Crown proceeds summarily and the maximum sentence is six months), such as simple assault, Criminal Code driving offences (e.g., dangerous driving), or theft under $5,000.
Indictable	Includes most indictable offences, such as more serious assaults, breaking and entering, dangerous or impaired driving causing death or bodily harm, criminal negligence, or conspiracy. It also includes summary matters where the minimum sentence is greater than six months (except for breach of probation), and unlawful confinement or abduction cases where the Crown proceeds summarily.
Major	Includes non-Criminal Case Management cases for the most serious offences, such as murder, attempted murder, manslaughter, aggravated sexual assault, sexual assault with a weapon or causing bodily harm, kidnapping, or dangerous offender and long-term offender hearings. It also includes unlawful confinement or abduction cases where the Crown proceeds by indictment.

Duty counsel

Duty counsel and advice counsel are paid an hourly rate up to the maximum number of hours specified in the contract. If additional hours are required, counsel must submit a request for extra legal fees when they submit their invoices.

See the Duty Counsel Tariff →

Circuit counsel

LSS generally has a standing contract with a lawyer for each location. Circuit counsel are responsible for handling all eligible cases on a circuit for a fixed half-day or weekly fee. The tariff rate includes all preparation on dates between circuits.

See the Duty Counsel Tariff →

Criminal Case Management Program

helpdesk.case-mgt@lss.bc.ca
604-681-7963 (fax)

The Criminal Case Management (CCM) program is designed to help LSS better predict costs in long trials, efficiently allocate legal aid funding, and provide appropriate resources to represent clients in serious criminal cases.

The block fee tariff doesn't apply to CCM cases; CCM cases are paid on an hourly tariff for preparation and court attendance with the exception of travel fees. CCM applies to all criminal cases where hearings are scheduled for more than 20 half days (i.e., 10 trial days) or preparation of the case is anticipated to exceed 75 hours.

See the CCM policy and procedures →

Enhanced fee cases

Enhanced fees may be available for senior counsel ($125 per hour) in cases that LSS considers to be complex criminal matters. The case must be either a CCM case where the general preparation exceeds 300 hours or a complex criminal appeal.

Learn more about Enhanced fees →

Rowbotham applications

Anyone charged with a serious criminal offence who has been denied a contract can apply to a judge to appoint a lawyer for them in accordance with the decision in R. v. Rowbotham et al (1988) 25 O.A.C. 321.

If the application is successful, LSS will appoint counsel and make payments according to the tariff contract, or as a case subject to case management. In some cases, LSS may approve coverage without requiring the applicant to go to court for an order. This is normally done when a client is only slightly above the financial eligibility criteria and the matter is complex.

“Legal aid work is the most gratifying part of my practice. It provides me with an opportunity to help people facing pressing legal concerns who would not otherwise receive the advice and support they desperately need.”

—Todd McPherson, Vancouver

Appeals

Appeals Section

604-601-6085 and 604-682-0956 (fax)

The Appeals and Judicial Reviews Tariff contains detailed information about criminal appeals and judicial reviews. The LSS Appeals Section at the Vancouver Regional Centre reviews all appeal requests for merit. LSS funds only those appeals that fall under the society's criminal law coverage criteria and have a reasonable chance of success.

To get a legal aid contract for a criminal appeal, have your client re-apply for legal aid. Then you can either:

- » contact the Appeals Section (see above), or
- » submit a Criminal Appeal Opinion Letter Questionnaire about the case.

Family

LSS provides legal representation and advice services for family law issues in Provincial Courts and some Supreme Courts throughout BC. An explanation of our objective and descriptions of our family law services, tariff, and appeals are included in this section.

Find out about family law information for clients on page 66 →

Objective of family legal aid services

In the BC family justice system, there is increasing emphasis on consensual dispute resolution (CDR), coupled with effective trial representation for cases that require litigation to resolve. LSS has adopted the following policy statement as its fundamental objective for family legal aid services.

To help eligible people resolve their family law legal problems by:

- » focusing on the needs of children and families,
- » encouraging the use of non-adversarial settlement processes, and
- » supporting court processes to resolve disputes when non-adversarial approaches aren't appropriate or effective.

This reflects the LSS goal of providing legal aid services that are proportionate to client needs, and will guide the society in its delivery of family legal aid services and its participation in family justice system reform.

Mediation and collaborative law

LSS recognizes mediation and collaborative law approaches as effective tools in achieving early CDR in family law cases.

Mediation involves the use of a trained, independent facilitator to assist the parties in reaching agreements that accommodate their interests, with the cost of the mediator typically shared by both sides.

Collaborative law takes a variety of forms, but fundamentally involves a commitment to an interest-based resolution of a dispute without litigation. Some cases feature signed collaborative law agreements stipulating that the lawyers involved will withdraw if negotiations fail and the case proceeds to litigation. Other approaches are less formal, and may simply entail structured settlement negotiations involving the parties and their lawyers (“four-way” meetings).

Legal representation

Legal representation is governed by the Family Tariff, which is divided into:

- » Family Law Referral Services, and
- » Extended Services.

Family law contract

Each family law contract identifies the primary issues for which the contract was granted. These issues generally involve emergency or high conflict situations. The services you provide to your client should focus on the primary issues identified on the contract.

If after addressing the primary issues listed on the contract you find you have time remaining, you may address your client's significant related family legal issues.

If an applicant is covered under the LSS guidelines, you may provide services to obtain the usual relief under the Family Law Act (FLA) or the Divorce Act, as long as it can be done within the hours provided by LSS. However, LSS won't provide coverage or extend coverage to obtain a divorce only. If more hours are required for clients whose primary issues haven't been resolved, see Extended Services below.

Protection order contract

You may receive a limited contract (protection order only) if your client requires a protection order under the FLA and doesn't otherwise qualify for a family law contract.

Learn more in the Family Tariff →

Eligibility

Applicants must be financially eligible and have a covered issue. Additionally, if children are involved, applicants must be the parents (including same-sex partners) or parties to the proceedings who are:

- » members of the children's immediate or extended family,
- » relatives or individuals who have lived with the children in a parental or custodial relationship, or
- » members of the community who have a cultural or traditional responsibility towards the children.

Children under the age of 19 can also apply for legal aid. However, if the applicant is a temporary or permanent ward of the Ministry of Children and Family Development, it's up to the ministry to provide counsel.

Extended Services

If you need more time to resolve the primary issues listed on the family contract, you may apply for Extended Services.

In deciding whether Extended Services should be granted, LSS considers merit, available budget, and other criteria.

Learn more in the Family Tariff →

LSS takes a discretionary approach to authorization of Extended Services. The society uses case management to review Opinion Letters from counsel and to generally authorize a block of Extended Services. Where legal issues persist and if funds permit, LSS may, on an exceptional basis, provide further funding.

To apply for Extended Services, fax an Extended Family Services Opinion Letter to Case Management at 604-681-7963.

To request a review of a case management decision, fax a written request to Case Management at 604-681-7963.

Eligibility

Clients must still be financially eligible under the LSS guidelines. The test LSS applies is whether the client has made good faith efforts to negotiate a settlement and whether resolving the issues will result in a significant benefit to the client.

Settlements and judgments

Family law contracts may involve applications to recover family assets. In cases where a client receives a judgment or settlement, LSS may require the client to repay the fees and expenses to LSS.

See the Settlements and Judgments policy →

Legal advice

LSS provides family legal advice through the following services:

- » family duty counsel,
- » family advice lawyers,
- » circuit court, and
- » Family LawLINE.

Family duty counsel

Family duty counsel (FDC) are lawyers scheduled in most Provincial and some Supreme Courts who give legal advice to financially eligible clients with family law problems involving the Family Law Act, the Family Maintenance Enforcement Act, the Child, Family and Community Services Act, the Divorce Act, and the Interjurisdictional Support Orders Act.

FDC may:

- » give legal advice about parenting, and child and spousal support; property (limited); tentative settlement agreements; and court procedures;
- » speak for clients in court on simple matters such as adjournments, consent and emergency protection orders, and uncontested guardianship/custody, contact/parenting time/access, and support hearings;
- » help clients draft documents, review documents to be filed in court, and negotiate and settle issues; and
- » prepare for and attend judicial case conferences or family case conferences.

Priority is given to clients who have matters in court that day and who meet the LSS income test for legal advice services. Financially eligible clients may receive up to three hours of legal advice. Once these clients have been helped, FDC may assist others who need legal advice about family issues (usually 20 to 45 minutes of service, depending on availability).

In Provincial Court, FDC services are provided on scheduled remand days and, in some locations, on non-list days for general advice. Family list days for first-time court appearances are usually one to two days a week in larger communities and once a month in smaller communities. In certain Supreme Court locations, FDC services are provided as scheduled.

Find FDC court locations →

The Vancouver FDC program is co-housed with family justice counsellors in the Provincial and Supreme Court complex to enhance both services. Client files are maintained and counsel can help clients prepare for their case over several meetings.

Getting on the duty counsel roster

Duty counsel coordinator (Vancouver Regional Centre)

dutycounsel@lss.bc.ca

604-601-6066 and 604-601-6195 (fax)

To be eligible for family duty counsel work, you must have:

- » a minimum of two years' experience practising family law and a minimum of two years' experience in the court location for which you have applied;
- » a sufficient level of expertise in cases under the Family Law Act, the Divorce Act, and the Child, Family and Community Service Act (your history of accepting these types of contracts from LSS will be reviewed to determine your experience); and
- » a satisfactory history with the LSS Audit and Investigation Department.

Other considerations include:

- » the need for diversity within the roster (e.g., fluency in a second language),
- » family or civil mediation training,
- » collaborative law training,
- » experience with the Family Maintenance Enforcement Act,
- » the location of your practice,
- » other family duty counsel experience, and
- » feedback from stakeholders contacted by LSS.

Family advice lawyers

Family advice lawyers are family duty counsel who provide advice in various locations, unrelated to days that courts are sitting. For example, they serve clients of the Ministry of Justice’s family justice counsellors in Kamloops, Kelowna, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Prince George, Surrey, Vancouver, and Victoria.

Financially eligible clients who are referred to you by a family justice counsellor or child support officer may receive up to three hours of advice on issues concerning parenting and child support, property (limited), tentative settlement agreements, and court procedures.

You can help clients:

- » prepare for court appearances,
- » follow up on the proceedings, and
- » settle separation or divorce matters during mediation proceedings.

Clients who aren’t financially eligible can still receive an initial 45-minute appointment (with a referral from a family justice counsellor).

Family advice lawyers are governed by the Duty Counsel Tariff.

Circuit counsel

LSS provides circuit counsel on some Provincial Court circuit sittings around BC. Circuit counsel can act as FDC on the circuit, and may also provide representation and other services in certain circumstances where approved by LSS. Qualified individuals in circuit locations are only referred to other lawyers if circuit counsel isn’t able to act.

Family LawLINE

Family LawLINE is an LSS telephone service that provides information and legal advice about family law matters.

Family appeals are limited to child apprehension cases and other matters related to parenting where there's a risk of physical or severe emotional/psychological harm to the children or applicant or where there is a risk the children will be removed from the jurisdiction.

Apply to the LSS Appeals Section (which will approve funding for an appeal only if there's a reasonable chance of success).

You can:

- » call the Appeals Section (see above), or
- » submit a Family Appeal Opinion Letter Questionnaire about the case.

Child protection

LSS provides legal representation and advice services to financially eligible clients who have a legal problem that falls under the Child, Family and Community Service Act (CFCSA) and LSS coverage guidelines.

Find out about child protection law information for clients on page 66 →

Legal representation

LSS provides a contract when:

- » an applicant's child has been removed by the Ministry of Children and Family Development (MCFD),
- » MCFD has taken or has threatened to take an applicant's child(ren) away from them,
- » legal representation is required to deal with guardianship/custody and contact/access issues related to a child in the care of MCFD,
- » the applicant wants a contact/access order or wants to vary a temporary supervision or contact/access order, and
- » the applicant and MCFD have reached a proposed plan of care for the child and the client requires legal advice about the voluntary agreement.

LSS may provide a contract when:

- » a parent or other eligible adult wants to apply for the return of a child in continuing care, or
- » a parent opposes the permanent transfer of a child who is in the continuing care of MCFD to a person other than the child's parents, and the parental relationship with the child is at risk.

Applicants must be parents (including same-sex partners) or parties to the proceedings who are:

- » members of the child's immediate family,
- » relatives or individuals who have lived with the child in a parental or custodial relationship, or
- » members of the community who have a cultural or traditional responsibility towards the child.

Couples who live together receive a single contract. Separate contracts are issued only if there is a conflict that prevents them both from being represented by the same lawyer.

The LSS Tariffs states that the case is ongoing until the children are returned to the family or become wards of MCFD under a Continuing Custody Order, the Director withdraws all applications, or the parenting issues related to a child in care are resolved and you've submitted your final bill. If, during the life of the contract:

- » the child gets re-removed (re-apprehended) after return or before a Supervision Order has expired, or
- » an additional child or children are apprehended from the client at another time, contact the referring office to have the new child/children added to the existing CFCSA contract and request Extended Services if more hours are needed.

If the parent of the children named in a CFCSA matter is a ward of MCFD under a continuing care agreement, MCFD will arrange for appointment of counsel through the Ministry of Justice.

Learn more about when a CFCSA contract ends →

Legal advice

LSS provides legal advice services in child protection matters through:

- » duty counsel services
- » independent advice for children over 12 years of age, and
- » Family LawLINE.

Legal advice (and representation) for children

Family Services Coordinator

604-601-6239

Under an agreement with MCFD, LSS has created a province-wide roster of lawyers who can provide independent legal advice to children over 12 when:

- » their consent is required for a court-ordered plan of care,
- » they're wards of MCFD and are consenting to an adoption, or
- » they're wards of MCFD and they're consenting to the permanent transfer of their guardianship or custody to a party who isn't a parent.

Additionally, under this agreement, the lawyers can provide advice to third parties who consider accepting permanent guardianship/custody of children.

The CFCSA requires independent representation for children who are made a “party to the proceedings” under the CFCSA. The applicant should contact the child’s social worker, who arranges for appointment of counsel through the Ministry of Justice. The ministry pays for these legal services. For more information, contact the coordinator (see above).

The tariff

The CFCSA Tariff is billable per hour at the legal aid tariff rate up to specified maximums for preparation time, and actual time for attendance in court (for all appearances other than attendance at a commencement hearing).

An initial CFCSA contract authorizes you to represent your client subject to the terms and conditions of the tariff contract. In some circumstances, Extended Services may be authorized after counsel has submitted an Opinion Checklist to Case Management and the initial CFCSA contract hours have been exhausted after providing reasonable services.

Immigration

LSS provides legal representation and advice for financially eligible clients who need help initiating refugee claims, who are appealing a refugee claim decision, or who face an immigration proceeding that could result in their removal from Canada to a country where they're at risk, as considered in sections 96 and 97 of the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act. To receive a contract, applicants must have a reasonable chance of being successful in their case.

Legal advice services for immigration matters include duty counsel services at the Pacific Region Enforcement Centre of the Canada Border Services Agency in Vancouver and a telephone advice line for detained refugee claimants.

The Immigration Tariff and appeals and reviews are also discussed in this chapter.

Find out about immigration law information for clients on page 66 →

Legal representation

LSS provides legal representation for the following immigration matters.

Refugee claims

Commenced with a Basis of Claim (BOC) Form

LSS merit screens all applications for legal aid representation contracts in refugee claim cases regardless of a person's country of origin.

If there is merit, LSS will issue a refugee claim contract that authorizes you to bill up to a set amount of preparation time and actual attendance time at a hearing. You may also bill up to a set amount for interpreter fees and translation fees without prior authorization. The amounts of preparation time are set in the Immigration Tariff. The amounts for interpreter fees and translation fees are set in the Disbursements Tariff.

Refugee hearings

Commenced by a Personal Information Form

When a client applies to LSS for legal assistance with a hearing, LSS reviews the person's Personal Information Form and determines whether there is merit to providing a contract for representation at the hearing.

If there is merit, LSS issues a hearing contract that authorizes you to bill up to a set amount of preparation time and actual attendance time at a hearing. You may also bill up to a set amount for interpreter fees and translation fees. The amounts of preparation time are set in the Immigration Tariff. The amounts for interpreter fees and translation fees are set in the Disbursements Tariff.

Pre-removal risk assessments

Clients must apply for legal aid if they want legal assistance in submitting a Pre-Removal Risk Assessment (PRRA) application. The LSS Appeals Section at the Vancouver Regional Centre screens all PRRA applications to determine whether there is merit regardless of the client's country of origin. If LSS issues a contract, you're entitled to bill general preparation time up to the amount authorized on the contract.

Humanitarian and Compassionate applications

The LSS Appeals Section at the Vancouver Regional Centre screens all Humanitarian and Compassionate applications for merit regardless of the client's country of origin. If LSS issues a contract, you're entitled to bill general preparation time up to the amount authorized on the contract.

Other immigration cases

LSS may fund the following types of other immigration cases if there is sufficient merit and the client is at risk:

- » complex admissibility hearings before the Adjudication Division
- » applications to re-open or re-instate proceedings before the Immigration and Refugee Board
- » cases involving loss of permanent resident status before the Immigration Appeal Division
- » various appeals and Judicial Reviews (see below)
- » applications to the Refugee Protection Division to cease or to vacate refugee protection status

These cases are processed by the Appeals Section at the Vancouver Regional Centre.

See the Appeals and Judicial Reviews Tariff (Immigration appeals) →

Legal advice

LSS provides legal advice services for people detained on immigration holds through duty counsel.

Duty counsel

LSS provides duty counsel for people in detention in Vancouver at the Pacific Region Enforcement Centre of the Canada Border Services Agency. Duty counsel provide clients who are detained with legal advice about immigration proceedings. They can also represent clients at initial detention hearings (48-hour hearings and 7-day reviews). They can also represent detainees at 30-day reviews if there's been a change in circumstances and there's a reasonable chance they'll be released.

There is no financial eligibility test for immigration duty counsel services.

The tariff

Here are some important LSS tariff guidelines that affect immigration services:

- » The service stop date for the immigration duty counsel services that you'll provide is noted on your contract.
- » Even if your clients have been referred separately, LSS considers them to be multiple clients if cases are treated by the Immigration and Refugee Board as a family unit or joined matter. For further details about how to bill for multiple clients, see the Immigration Tariff.
- » A change of counsel will only be granted in exceptional circumstances and must be authorized.

Prison

LSS delivers prison law services in all federal and provincial correctional facilities in BC. The prisoner's first point of contact with LSS is through the LSS Call Centre. LSS has local and toll-free phone numbers, with priority access, that prisoners can call from prison. If the client has an issue that deals with the liberty interest of the prisoner, they're referred to the West Coast Prison Justice Society (WCPJS). The WCPJS then determines the level of service to be provided, ranging from legal information to legal representation.

Legal representation

LSS policy is based on the right to counsel under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. Services may be provided to clients who have serious and complex problems that affect their liberty and require a lawyer to ensure a fair hearing. LSS may provide representation for clients facing:

- » internal disciplinary hearings,
- » involuntary transfers to higher security,
- » detention hearings at the point of statutory release,
- » segregation,
- » parole suspension or revocation, or
- » unlawful detention as a result of the miscalculation of sentence.

LSS funds the WCPJS, also known as Prisoners Legal Services, to provide legal information, self-help assistance, and representation in administrative proceedings such as disciplinary hearings, rebuttals to involuntary transfer recommendations, and appeals to the Appeal Division of the National Parole Board.

LSS Appeals Section handles legal aid applications and may issue contracts for any prison law matters that will be heard by a court, including judicial reviews of administrative decisions and any further appeals.

Reviews

Judicial reviews under section 745.6

Judicial reviews under section 745.6 of the Criminal Code (“faint hope” applications) provide for a review of the parole ineligibility period with respect to certain life sentences after the prisoner has served 15 years. Applications are made to the appropriate chief justice in the province where the conviction took place. The application is a two-stage process. First, there is a “judicial screening” hearing where a judge decides if the application has a reasonable chance of success. If it has, the application is referred for a full hearing before a judge and jury.

The LSS Appeals Section reviews the initial application for legal aid to bring a section 745.6 application. The Appeals Section will only fund coverage if the application has a reasonable chance of success. The Appeals Section issues contracts under the Appeals and Judicial Reviews Tariff only for the “judicial screening” hearing and any appeals of the decision on the judicial screening.

If the applicant is successful and the case proceeds to a full hearing before a judge and jury, LSS will treat the case as a Criminal Case Management (CCM) program case. Fax a CCM Questionnaire with a draft budget to Case Management.

Inter-provincial reviews

Prisoners are often incarcerated in institutions outside the province or territory where they were convicted. The Association of Legal Aid Plans has a protocol for handling inter-provincial reviews.

Under this protocol, the legal aid plan in the jurisdiction where the hearing will take place (i.e., where the crime and conviction occurred) appoints and pays for lead counsel who manages the case. Lead counsel will call on legal aid plans in other provinces or territories to provide and pay for work that must be done in those jurisdictions.

Mental health

LSS delivers mental health law services in both civil and criminal cases.

Legal representation – hearings

Mental Health Act review panels

People who are detained in a mental health facility against their will under the Mental Health Act are eligible for legal representation at a Mental Health Review Panel hearing.

The review panel consists of a chair, a doctor appointed by the hospital, and a person appointed by the patient. Patients have the right to counsel at these proceedings because the review panels determine whether they should continue to be detained.

LSS contracts with the Community Legal Assistance Society (CLAS) to provide representation at Mental Health Review Panels in BC where people are detained under the Mental Health Act.

Criminal Code review boards

People who are found unfit to stand trial or not criminally responsible by reason of mental disorder have a right to counsel at Criminal Code Review Board hearings. The Review Board makes decisions about whether to detain individuals at forensic psychiatric hospitals or restrict their liberty in the community.

LSS contracts with CLAS to provide representation at Review Board hearings in the Lower Mainland. LSS provides representation at Review Board hearings outside the Lower Mainland through contracts to the private bar. You can find billing information in the Criminal Tariff.

Appeals of Review Board dispositions lie with the BC Court of Appeal and may be funded by LSS Appeals Section.

General criminal law cases

Legal representation may be provided to financially eligible applicants who don't face a risk of imprisonment upon conviction of Criminal Code or related federal offences if their mental or emotional disability prevents them from defending themselves because:

- » they can't understand the nature of the proceedings or the possible consequences; or
- » they aren't able to communicate effectively with counsel or the court.

Billing tips

All invoices are electronically billed through LSS Online (click "Register now").

604-601-6155 or 1-888-401-6206 (no charge) and 604-681-5796 (fax)

When you contact us, you'll hear back from a tariff accounts examiner within one business day.

Please note the following when submitting your invoices:

- » The current hourly rate is $83.90 for hourly tariffs.
- » Indicate actual hours incurred but bill only the maximum hours allowed on the hourly tariffs.
- » Bill block fees as listed in the current tariff guide on our website.
- » Experience adjustments will be applied at the time of payment, if applicable.
- » If you have a series of invoices, indicate on each form the applicable result for the services claimed on it and indicate the final result on the last form only.
- » LSS will consider requests for extra legal fees at the conclusion of the contract, or additional preparation during active contracts; send requests via LSS Online and ensure your invoices are up to date.
- » You may print a copy of the authorization request (and response) from the Authorization tab.

Before you submit your invoices

Please refer to these resources to find out about billing updates and changes to our tariffs.

After you submit your invoices

Please follow these processes after you've billed your invoices:

- » Inquire about payment only when the invoice is over 30 days old; only re-bill an invoice upon our request.
- » Reply to us by email if you receive a request for more information from Lawyer Services; you don't need to reply if additional information isn't required.
- » Respond to a request for more information within 30 days, or applicable fees and/or disbursements may be deducted.
- » Fax changes about your bank information to the Finance Department at 604-682-7967, using the Lawyer Direct Deposit Form-C.
- » Keep timesheets (detailing the service date and description of service) to support the time claimed — your invoice may be audited within two years of the date of payment. See the LSS Tariffs – General Terms and Conditions for a sample timesheet form.
- » To check payment details, click the report link under the Payments tab.

Changes? Email us with the appropriate changes to any billing errors you notice at lawyer.support@lss.bc.ca.

Criminal

General

- » Submit a Request for Authorization form via LSS Online to have new charges added to an existing contract.
- » Supreme Court bail reviews, including 90-day reviews, require prior authorization by the Case Management Section.
- » The experience adjustments don't apply to administrative and summary offences, or criminal enhanced fee cases.
- » When there are co-accused, one full fee and an additional one half-fee per service provided are billable regardless of the number of additional clients.

Billing invoices

- » Ensure that the charges correlate to those included on your contract.
- » Record the court location where the matter was heard, not where the charges originated.
- » If more information is needed, provide a note, as prompted.

Family

General

- » You may apply for Extended Services if nothing further can reasonably be done under the current family law contract and further services are required. Eligibility is based on merit considerations, available budget, and other factors.

Child protection

General

- » A CFCSA contract continues until the child is returned to the family without conditions, a Continuing Custody Order is made, a Temporary Custody Order or Supervision Order has expired and there is no further ministry involvement, your retainer has ended because of a change of counsel or other actions taken by the client, it's been two years since the service start date, or the Director withdraws all applications.
- » You'll receive only one contract, regardless of the number of apprehensions. Bill all issues under that contract.
- » Application for leave to cancel a Continuing Custody Order requires prior approval. (Terrace office applications are reviewed by their managing lawyer; all other applications must be approved by the Family Services Coordinator in the Vancouver office.)

Re-removal/re-apprehension

- » Re-removals from Supervision Orders are included in an initial Removal contract.
- » Separate removals (other children) are also included in an initial Removal contract.

Billing invoices

- » Ensure that the child's name you're listing appears on the contract; if a second child is apprehended, please contact the referring office to add that child's name to the contract.
- » Only the last page of the invoice should indicate the current or final result and hearing stage when you submit a series of invoices at one billing.
- » If more information is needed, provide a note, as prompted.

Immigration

Billing invoices

- » If there are multiple clients, bill for preparation time on each client's separate contract. For the first client, you may bill full preparation time. For the second adult client, you can claim up to an additional half block of preparation time. For every additional adult client, you may claim up to an additional quarter block of preparation time.

Appeals

General

- » Authorization from our Appeals Section is required for all Appeals Tariff items.
- » Contact the Appeals Section if the preauthorized hours are inadequate.
- » Non-refugee hearings require authorization from the Appeals Section.

Duty counsel and circuit counsel

Billing invoices

- » Your contract will set out your total authorized hours for the service period of the contract.
- » You may now claim more than one service date on a single invoice.
- » If you saw no clients, choose any service and primary issue and enter "Ø" for the number of clients.
- » If applicable, complete a travel record for each travel instance within the contract service period.

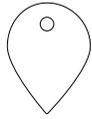

Disbursements for all tariffs

General

- » Bill within the authorization given by the Disbursements Coordinator.
- » Prior authorization is required (as stated in the LSS Tariffs):
 - » to bill any disbursement not listed in the tariff; submit an authorization request for a tariff item via LSS Online.
 - » to bill in excess of the preauthorized limits in the tariff.

Billing invoices

- » “Units” are the number of pages, kilometres, or hours.
- » Keep your receipts on file in case of an audit.
- » LSS pays contracted transcription companies directly.
- » LSS isn’t responsible for any contract for disbursements made between a lawyer and a third party.
